ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A computer program for a controlling apparatus executes the procedure of monitoring a frequency of communications from the controlling apparatus to the outside. The computer program executes procedure of detecting computer virus infection at the controlling apparatus by means of comparing the monitored frequency of communications with a preset threshold value.